paired by the villages and not by the Wrecks Grain, Houses, Trees, and Destroys Slumber

> The electrical storm of Tuesday night did more damage to the grain crops of the county, destroyed a tenant house and a barn in different localities, and started some of the lake waters rising again just as they were about to reach normal after the flood of a week ago.

The storm broke with full fury about midnight and was pretty general over the county. Heavy winds prevailed for the better part of an hour and the electrical display was unusually brilliant. The downpour of rain was followed in some sections by hail. According to farm bureau adviser Gilkerson, of Grayslake, the rain, hail more. This was the only crop damage. The Nippersink river was reported rising again yesterday, contributing to the return of high waters to Fox Lake.

Mayor and Council Will Ask F. W. A. Project for Building

Antioch is going after her share in the Federal spending program which is now underway, actually put intooperation two weeks ago. Mayor George Bartlett stated yesterday morning that plans are going forward for application for PWA aid in the building of a new city hall, which is the most desirable project for the city of Antioch.

In order to secure the project the city must match the PWA appropriation with money of her own. There is available at present a few thousand dollars of motor funds that could be applied to the building, the rest of the money necessary must need be raised by bond issue with the approval of the

It is suggested that the new city hall should occupy a part of the lot purchased by the city for a post office site: the lot now the site of the Ball hotel at the corner of Main and Or-chard streets, is large enough for both buildings.

The initiative in applying for WPA grants rests entirely with the municicalled by Miss Miriam Finkelstein, di- Last Week-end Was Lucky palities. ## WAUKEGAN SAT.

Postmaster-General Jim Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, stopped in Waukegan for about five minutes Saturday night en route by special car to Chicago.

The Farley train arrived at 6:55 and was greeted by a group of Democrats, interspersed with a few Republicans. It was observed that all Democratic factions were represented in the crowd, although they seemed to meet on the same footing with some reluctance.

Postmaster Joseph P. Daly, of Waukegan, a personal friend of Farley, was perhaps the only one in the group of aspiring and perspiring postmasters present, to get a few intimate words with the master politician of them all. Farley stepped smilingly from the platform to grasp Daly's hand and incidentally received a big bouquet of roses from Mrs. Daly, who accompanied her husband. After that it was a sort of free for all between the reporters, the cameramen, the star Democrats, and a few candidates and excandidates who recognized the campaign value of seeming to be on chatty terms with the Democrats' chief.

The people eat reindeer meat all the year 'round-the fresh meat in autumn and winter, smoked and salted in spring and summer. Their winter garments, their blankets and bedding are reindeer skins and furs. The tents or tepees are hung with reindeer skins for warmth. Most of the Lapps' simple and limited household gear is made from rein- life, sufferings, death and resurrecdeer hide, horn, and bone. Coarse thread, string, and heavy cord are manipulated out of the sinews. The babies' cradles and the pulkas are made with reindeer hides. The pulkas are the odd-looking little sleds or sleighs without runners that rest flat on the snow. They are shaped like the front end of a small canoe cut in half, pointed in the bow, and cut square across the rear end. These are drawn by reindeer, and the driving harness is made from reindeer sinews. The Lapp cannot live without the reindeer; the reindeer cannot live without the Lapp. The Lapp is not adaptable to any other mode of living. City or industrial life in the factory or office is impossible to him. These vast northern territories are uninhabitable for any human beings except these people. They live and thrive in hardships that white men will not endure. The Lapp is hardy despite his small stature and light weight.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, July

The Golden Text was, "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth" (I Corinthians 5:8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Have mercy upon me, O God, according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions. Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit" (Psalms 51: 1, 10, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot choose for ourselves, but must work out our salvation in the way Jesus taught. First in the list of Christian duties, he taught his followers the healing power of Truth and Love. It is the living Christ, the practical Truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow him in deed" (pp. 30 and 31).

Freedom

UMAN experience in many cases seems to consist of an endless struggle for emancipation from various forms of oppression, physical or financial, moral or social. Is this not because freedom is too often sought only for the furtherance of worldly pursuits and the indulgence of fleshly comforts? Not that physical well-being is reprehensible, for "sufficiency in all things" (II Corinthians 9:8) is desirable as a result of understanding God's loving care for His creation.

But dependence upon material means and humanly evolved systems for welfare and happiness, instead of dependence upon the spiritual completeness of man in God's image, constitutes bondage. On page 251 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Inhammonious beliefs, which rob Mind, calling it matter, and deify their own notions, imprison themselves in what they create." The question is therefore one of freedom for something rather than merely freedom from something, Freedom for what? Freedom for gain of the highest order, by means of an intelligent understanding of God, or divine Principle.

Surely the following verse, the import of which is reiterated throughout the Scriptural narrative of the children of Israel, furnishes saith the Lord, Let my people go, that they may serve me" (Exodus Louis, Missouri, are the guests of Dr. 8:1). The purpose of freedom is that week.

Mrs. L. John Zimmerman this What, then, is the significance of the words, "that they may serve me"?

To determine this aright it is first of all necessary to understand the nature of Delty and man's relationship to Him. . .

Freedom from whatever is false and discordant is to be won by continual resort to the fact of man's perfection as God's image, and by ordering one's daily life accordingly.

"The admission to one's self that man is God's own likeness sets man free to master the infinite idea"

(Science and Health, p. 90).
The nature of this "infinite idea" is best discerned in the character and career of Christ Jesus. His understanding of God gave him dominion over supply, so-called laws of health, gravitation, and so on. His understanding freed him from every suggestion of lack and from the mesmerism of death and the grave, and also enabled him to free others. In the wilderness he resisted the temptation to indulge personal desires and material power; for he knew and demonstrated that one is assured of freedom in proportion to his meek obedience to the demands of God, Miss Jean Brett returned home Mon- revealed in Christian Science as divine Principle.

Just as the planets are not free to space, but manifest beauty and harmony each in its own orbit, so man reflects the harmony of being through fulfilling the purposes of divine Principle. Just as an attempt to open a locked drawer with the wrong key is unsuccessful, so any self-willed effort on the part of a human being to consummate something not in line with Principle necessarily induces failure and frustration, since it constitutes disobe-

Nevertheless, divine Principle is still available in whatever circumstances one may find himself, whether apparently of his own or another's procuring. Sang the Psalmist (139:8), "If I ascend up into heaven, thou are there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there." An chedient, receptive mental attitude ! brings one's thoughts and one's affairs under the beneficent control of God's harmonious and dynamic law and thus opens the way to freedom.

However one is situated one can at once begin to think intelligently, truly, and lovingly by reflecting God. perfect Mind, and there are few conditions where one is not in some measure free to exercise the qualities of gratitude, kindness, honesty, wisdom, and justice, which characterize the true man. . . . - The Christian Bcience Monitor.

Meaning of Name "Sampler"

The name "sampler" means just what it says-a sample of stitches and designs to be copied in embroidering fine needlework. It has a very ancient lineage. Tudor maidens bent over bits of hand-spun and hand-woven linen and skeins of gaycolored silks, and our little New | England girls sat primly in straight chairs and "put tiny stitches into small squares of material." An English poet in 1520 refers to "the sampler to sew on, the lace to embroider." THREE RULES FOR MARKETING CATTLE

Important Points Cited by University Expert.

By R. C. Ashby, Chief in Live Stock Marketing, University of Illinois.
WNU Service. To market fat cattle to advantage cattle feeders can do no better than to follow three fundamental rules.

Stated briefly the three rules are to avoid overloading the market, to sell competitively and to fit cattle to the market.

In following the first of these rules, shipments will need to be adjusted to the capacity of the market to absorb them. This will require careful team work between cattle feeders and sales agencies on the mar-

To get the full strength of the market, it is necessary to sell competitively on the open competitive of the little shawl that he made such market, and to get the best available sales service it is advisable to sell through strong sales agencies. By fitting cattle to the market, the third rule laid down, is meant when they become fat enough to sell to advantage. The margin a feeder needs to carmy cattle in summer-cattle that Iheld until September in anticipation of a higher price-depends largely upon the age of the cattle, it is pointed out.

Calves can be held much better than older cattle since they will continue to make fairly economical gains. Older cattle, however, if fat, gain little if anything during hot weather. Consequently, their entire feed bill during the holding period must be recovered by a higher selling price.

It is believed that a price increase of about 50 cents a month is needed in holding two-year-old steers in summer. Less is needed with calves, especially on 50 cent corn.

Use of Roost Poles for

Turkeys Is Recommended When poults reach the age of approximately ten weeks, and no longneed artificial heat, they prefer to roost in the open. At this time they may be transferred from their old brooding quarters to new range where heavy roost poles have been provided, says E. M. Funk, Missouri College of Agriculture.

A tier of roost poles made of 2 by spaced from 18 to 24 inches apart on a platform of framing material that is 4 to 6 feet high, makes satisfactory roosting quarters for the turkeys. Posts are generally used to support the timbers on which roost poles are placed. Poultry netting or finely woven fencing wire should be used over the roost poles and around the sides of the roosting platform, to keep the poults from coming in contact with the drop-

The same location for roosting quarters may be used throughout the summer and the turkeys driven to and from their daily range. This method of management will prevent the use of range some distance from where the turkeys roost. On many farms it is desirable to have them roost near the farmstead as a protection against theft. Where there is no danger of theft, roosting quarters may be changed at the time a rotation of the range is made.

BUG POISON PINK INSTEAD OF WHITE

Purpose of Changed Color to Prevent Mistakes.

By James W. Dayton, Extension Vegetable Specialist, Massachusetts State College, WNU Service.

Farmers who purchase new stocks of lead arsenate and calcium arsenate this year may be surprised to find these materials pink instead of white. It isn't that pink insecticides will kill bugs any quicker but rather that the pink is added so human beings will not mistake these poisons, for flour, lime, or other white powders.

The new color of these products is in accordance with the following announcement by the Agricultural Insecticide and Fungicide associa-

"In the interests of public health and for the protection of users of agricultural arsenical insecti-cides, this industry has, by voluntary agreement, adopted and will use a pink coloring in all white arsenical products.

"It is the belief of the industry that this action represents a constructive effort by the industry to eliminate as far as possible the haz-ard of mistaken identity of the products and that in time the pink color will become established as a distinctive warning of the poisonous nature of the material."

Since this change in the custom-ary appearance of the materials may possibly lead to some confusion, it is emphasized that the coloring agent has no effect whatever on the insecticidal value of the arsenicals. The new pink products are to be used according to the same recommendations that have applied to the arsenicals in their white con-

The pink coloring will be a real advantage in serving as a ready means of identification so that arsenicals will not be mistaken for other white powdery substances as other white powdery substances as has happened when the materials Fri., July 22—Am. Legion Auxiliary Tuesday, July 26—Royal Neighbors. have been carried over from one season to another and the label has been lost from the container.

Teach Chicks to Go to

Roost and Save Trouble After chicks reach four weeks of age they can be taught to roost, and the poultryman will have less trouble teaching them than he will if he waits until they are three to five months old, according to experience at North Dakota agricultural college.

All brooder houses at the college poultry farm are equipped with roosts, and it has been found that with little or no bother the chicks early form the roosting habit. The roosts are built of lightweight ma-terial in a framework and are hinged midway on one wall of the four-sided brooder house so they may be raised when not in use or for cleaning. Wire of medium mesh is attached to and underneath the roosts to keep chicks away from the droppings.

The rows of roosts, lowered in place when chicks are about four weeks old, incline from the floor back to the wall, thus being easily available and inviting to the chicks.

Head of Healthy Hen The head of a bird supplies valuable indications of her activity. A hen in good laying condition will have comb, wattles and ear lobes full and large for her breed. The comb is stiff, smooth and waxy and bright red in color. With cessation of laying, the comb becomes shrunken, dry and rough. Like colored scales appear over its surface. Because of the rapidity with which a hen's comb changes its appearance with production, it gives a valuable clue to her state at the time of examination. The comb of the pullet, too, foreshadows her coming period of laying by expanding and coloring up.

Care of Leghorns Leghorns are fairly dainty and small feeders but are excellent consumers of mash and very large consumers of green food. Mash hoppers in the leghorn pen should be kept filled at all times and after the birds have gotten into good laying condition, grain feeding can be reduced to one feed a day, preferably at wight. Owing to their dispositions leghorns may be profitably confined to the houses for the entire year, but it is better if practicable to allow the breeding hens their liberty during the breeding season. That always results in stronger chicks and better hatches.

Brooder Temperatures

The temperature under the edge of the hover two inches from the litter should be from 95 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit the first week, 90 to 95 degrees the second week, and gradually lowered until no heat is needed. The amount of heat and the length of time it is needed de-pends on the season and the day. The heater, however, should be left in the brooder house a while after the heat is discontinued for possible use in unfavorable weather.

Aces Play Silver Lake Again Sunday

The Antioch Aces, behind the pitching of Kip Carlson, defeated the Pete's Tavern baseball team Sunday at the Victory Park diamond by the score of 7-2. The game was very close until the ninth inning when Nixon, the Antioch second baseman, hit a long home run with two men on the bases. Each team was credited with nine base hits, but Carlson was more effective in the pinches.

Next Sunday the Aces will play a return game with Silver Lake at Silver Lake. The batters for next Sunday will be Koehn and Schneider. The box score:

Worked to Pay Passage Steamship companies in the early days had systems whereby passengers in the lowest fare class could help pay for the trip by carrying wood for the boilers. When the boat stopped for fuel, these passengers would carry wood from storage places on the shore to the boiler

If You're Planning To

By W. S. Lowndes Director, Schools of Architecture and Building International Correspondence Schools

No matter what size house you are planning to build, or how much you intend to spend, the living room for general family use is very important. It should have plenty of sunlight, a good outlook and should be finished so as to produce a comfortable and homelike effect. In obtaining this effect, a fireplace is often desirable, as is a sun parlor or a porch placed adjacent to the living room. In large and pretentious houses other rooms are arranged that perform some of the functions of the living room in more modest structures.

A sun room or sun parlor is a common feature in even the most inexpensive homes. It may consist of a porch enclosed in glass, or it may be a special room having an abundance of windows. When the windows are flung wide open this room in reality becomes a porch, The exposure should be toward the south so as to obtain an abundance of sunlight in the winter months. Sun rooms are usually fitted with special furniture and decorated with plants. Individuality of the builder can be cleverly displayed in developing plans for the sun room.

Houses With Garages Attached. The problem of attaching a garage to a house is one that is rather difficult to solve. The large doors of the garage, which are open frequently, are generally too conspicuous and do not harmonize with the rest of the exterior. It is very desirable to locate the garage so that the doors will not be in front of the building, but to the side or rear.

GUNMAN EARNS HIS BREAD BY MISSING

Former Killer Is Now Mild-Mannered Movie Actor.

Hollywood,—Manuel Zamora, a mild mannered Mexican, admits he has killed 62 persons in his life, but currently earns his living by shooting bullets very close to movie actors without hitting them.

Between missing actors, Manuel spends his time keeping his studio arsenal in lethal order, his placid Hollywood existence affording sharp contrast to his early years. Back in 1916, Manuel and his roommate, Zeus Hernandez, terminated their educational careers by joining opposing armies—Manuel with Carranza's federal forces and Zeus with the revolutionist, Pancho

Once Chased Villa. During the next few months, Manuel recalls, the army spent its time chasing Villa and in return spent more time fleeing from Villa. He esimates during six months of soldiering he killed an average of ten revolutionists a month.

Manuel left the army when his ankle was shattered by a stray bullet and was sent to Mexico City by train. The train, however, was ambushed by Villa's men, who executed all passengers in uniform and searched all civilians. Manuel was wearing civilian clothes but his discharge papers from Carranza's army put him in with a group to be executed.

While chatting with Latin sociability and fatalism with the men assigned to shoot him, Manuel heard a familiar voice. It was Zeus, his old roommate, who now was a lieutenant with Villa, and who obained Manuel's release.

By the time the United States entered the World war Manuel had drifted to Texas and enlisted in the American army. He never reached the front because officers found he knew all about every type of machine gun, knowledge gained when he was obliged to convert every kind of machine gun into a workable weapon for Carranza's army. So Manuel was kept at Kelly Field, Texas, instructing American fliers | Abyssinian, jut just then some inin the care and operation of their Turns Down Gang Job.

When the war ended he declined a job as "trigger man" for a leading Chicago gangster and drifted toward Hollywood, where his shooting abilkept nim busy.

He did his first fancy shooting in 'Wings," when he handled the machine guns which riddled planes. This was followed by many other shooting assignments.

For shooting blanks in a machine gun he gets $25 a day, and when he shoots "live shells" the rate jumps to $50 a day.

During 11 years Zamora has inflicted only one minor casualty-a few weeks ago, when in a scene he was to shoot a row of bottles from behind Chester Morris' head, His aim was accurate, as usual, but a splinter from a bottle inflicted a slight wound in Morris' neck.

Family Saves Money by Using 54-Year-Old Fire

New Straitsville, Ohio.-Going on picnic is just a matter of stepping into the back yard and placing a skillet on the ground for the Dave Rush family.

An underground fire which burns perilously near his house furnishes he heat, and Rush conserves on fuel in his home. and has consumed an estimated $50,000,000 worth of coal. Works Progress administration workers are attempting to confine the blaze within its present area. Meantime, the flames spread nearer the Rush home, but the family takes advantage of the heat instead of obeying the WPA warning to move away. "I see no need of wasting fuel to cook my meals inside the house on a nice day," said Mrs. Rush, "when there's so much heat going to waste within a stone's throw of the cook stove.' So the Rush family "goes out" for dinner.

"It's perfectly safe if you know where to set the table," says Mrs. Rush, "but everything is liable to burn up if you get careless."

Girls Drive Faster, Get

More Tickets, Survey Says Boston.-Women operate automobiles faster and safer than men, according to a survey conducted among students at Boston univer-

The average speed of women drivers at the university is 39 miles per hour as against a 37 mile-an-hour rate among men students. In addition, the coeds showed an average of one and a fourth accidents apiece while the males admitted to an average of two accidents each.

Both groups listed road hogs, cutting in and horn-blowing as major driving hazards although one young lady listed a smooth looking man in an adjacent car as her greatest

Because of their tendency for nigher speeds the girls led the boys in tickets, 26 per cent of the sweet things receiving invitations to tell the judge how fast they were going. Twenty per cent of the boys succumbed to the speed mania and were caught.

Wrestling Is Not So Difficult When Done With a Rock

Antioch's own Jim McMillen mixed it all over the place with King Kong, the "Abyssinian wonder" last Friday night, at the Grayslake arena. Approximately a thousand fans watched the wrestling match and those who were half-way reasonable got their money's worth. They had a chance to see the Abyssinian wonder wondering what it was all about while McMillen went to town. King Kong, weighing about two hundred and thirty-three pounds has a he-man covering of hair all over his body that gained him the nick-name of King Kong. . Maybe under ordinary circumstances he might have reflected some credit on his namesake, the big tree-crashing gorilla, but King-Kong was just up against it Friday night.

Jim McMillen was feeling a bit prankish, and Jim is something of a man-mountain and not to be dismissed lightly when he is in a prankish mood. Jim just wouldn't let King Kong carry through with dignity. Jim delighted the spectators by taking King Kong down and sitting on his chest, tossing him outside of the ring into the mud and playing various other juvenile tricks.

The crowd liked it but King Kong didn't, especially that part about the mud. Maybe they just don't go for mud in Abyssinia. At any rate King Kong seemed to consider it the crowning insult when he lit in a mud-hole just outside the arena and he climbs back in with a nice big rock in his hand and goes for Jim's cranium. He landed, too, once, twice, and maybe thrice, because our Jim wasn't looking for any such poor sportsmanship from his majesty, the King. The long and short of it is that when King Kong gave up wrestling and took to hammering on McMillen's head with a rock he began to get better results. For a half-minute Jim was dazed with the ferocity of the unexpected blows showerde on his head by the powerful trepid guy, name unknown, climbs into the arena from the ringside and takes a vicious poke at the King, who was just about to decide that rock fighting was right up his

The unknown was quickly followed by others and in a trice the arena was transformed into a freefor-all, with all the volunteers bent on teaching the King some of the ethis of the ring .... It was just about that time that Jim McMillen shook his battered head, recovered his aplomb and woke up to what was going on. Valiantly Jim tore his way through the crowd, rescued King Kong and again took him unto himself. And that's all in the world that saved King Kong for Abyssinia. Deferring to McMillen's priority of right the volunteer scrappers retired to the ringside and allowed McMillen to finish him off.

And except for a few tight-wads who are never satisfied with a bargain the spectators went home feeling that they had their money's worth.

Pomegranate Wood for Castanets Good castanets are made from pomegranate wood. They must resist the violent impact of fortissimo and staccato movements and if they have the slightest flaw will soon splinter. They are called chestnuts after the Moorish percussion instruments and because they look like chestnuts when separated.

Railroads Explain Why NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING They Would Cut Wages

Railroad wage rates in 1938 are at the highest average level in history, roads and railroad wages, compiled by cost of living, according to this study, the 25th day of July, 1938, from & do not justify the continuance of pres- o'clock P. M. to 9 o'clock P. M. ent wage levels, while the railroad industry, facing disaster, cannot sustain them. The study presents, in complete detail, the situation which compelled the railroads to seek, under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, a reduction of fifteen percent in present wage rates.

The railroads' study, based on offinational income. The study shows spection. also that the return on money invested in providing railroad plant and equipment is now less than one-tenth the rate of return in 1929 and less than one-third the return in 1932, the previous depth of the depression.

The causes for these changes are analyzed as less traffic hauled at lower average revenues, in contrast with rising prices, mounting taxes, and an average wage level now twenty per cent higher than it was in 1832,

The railroads' study also considers other reasons to which railroad difficulties are sometimes ascribed, and shows from Government authorities that railroads as a whole are not overcapitalized, and that fixed charges are neither excessive, unjust, nor a major cause of the present critical condition of the lines.

Carried Ox on His Shoulders Milo of Milon of Crotona, a Greek athlete who lived about the end of the Sixth century B. C., carried an ox on his shoulders through the stadium in Olympia. He was six times crowned at the Olympic games and six times at the Pythian for wrestling. His name was a synonym for strength throughout the civilized world and he commanded the army which defeated the people of Sybaris
